

DEPUTY PRIME MINISTER NICK CLEGG VISITS LAMBERT IN TADCASTER

Lambert Engineering Limited in Tadcaster was honoured by a surprise visit from Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg on his way to the Liberal Democrat Spring Conference at York Barbican over the weekend.

Mr Clegg arrived at Lambert on Friday 07 March 2014 at 12:15 and was welcomed by Managing Director, Warren Limbert. During a factory tour, Mr Clegg engaged with staff and apprentices before hosting a question and answer session.

Mr Limbert said: "I was extremely proud to accompany Mr Clegg around the facility and introduce him to a number of staff. Whilst touring the factory Mr Clegg commented on a number of things such as the cleanliness and organisation of the facility, the happy, positive demeanour of people that he spoke with, the high level of technological innovation and workmanship clearly on show and how he could feel a real positive culture around our business."

Part of the focus for Mr Clegg's visit was to meet Lambert apprentices during National Apprenticeship Week to hear first-hand how an apprenticeship had helped them into skilled work as well looking at one of the projects the apprentice team has completed – TAD1 the award winning Soap Box racing car. Lambert currently has 7 electrical and mechanical apprentices and is hoping to recruit a further 6 later this year.
